Comer begins by describing the current state of the earth. He notes that our planet is facing a number of serious challenges, including climate change, pollution, and deforestation. However, Comer argues that these challenges are not the end of the story. He believes that God is in the process of renewing and restoring all things, and that the future of creation is bright.

Comer's vision of the future is based on the biblical promise that God will make all things new. He believes that this promise will be fulfilled in the coming age, when Christ returns and establishes his kingdom on earth.

Comer describes this future kingdom as a place where there will be no more pain, suffering, or death. It will be a place where all things will be restored to their original beauty and glory.

Comer's book is a timely and important reminder that the future of creation is in God's hands. He encourages us to have hope in the midst of the challenges we face today. He reminds us that God is a God of renewal and restoration, and that he will ultimately make all things new.

The Earth Made New is a must-read for anyone who is interested in the future of creation. It is a book that will inspire you to hope and give you a new vision for the future.
